OLIVIA · CLASS 3

Your First Sentence

Finals, UBC one more time, how to open an interview — and the project only you can talk about.

DO ENGLISH WITH BRIAN

WARM-UP · 8 MIN

Finals week.

Pick one, then tell me why.

1 When do your finals start?

PICK ONE this week · next week · they already started → How do you feel about them?

2 Which subject are you most worried about?

PICK ONE math · science · English · social studies · something else → Why that one?

3 How do you usually study for finals?

PICK ONE I make a plan · I cram the night before · I study with friends · I go to an academy → Does it work for you?

UBC, ONE MORE TIME · 15 MIN

Tell me about UBC.

Short answers are fine. Brian will keep asking.

1. What did you do in class there?
2. Were your classes in English? Who taught them?
3. What was the hardest part for you?
4. Were most of the students Korean?
5. Did you notice how Vancouver handles trash and recycling?

UBC, ONE MORE TIME · 30 SECONDS

Now tell me again.

Thirty seconds. This time, include one moment only you can tell.

IF THEY ASK ABOUT THE OTHER STUDENTS

Most of the students in my program were Korean, but ~

ONE MOMENT ONLY YOU CAN TELL

OLIVIA SAYS · 30 SECONDS

How to open an interview.

From Brian's interview book, Notes from the Other Side.

1

Your first sentence picks the next question.

The interviewers listen to how you introduce yourself — and choose their next question from it.

2

Say something only you can say.

Not your school or your grade. What you do, again and again.

3

Don't start with these.

“Let me introduce myself.” · your school name

YOUR FIRST SENTENCE · 2 / 2

Three ways to start.

After “Good afternoon. My name is Olivia.” — pick one and make it yours.

A FROM YOUR PROJECT

I'm a student who turns questions about the environment into practical action at school. Most recently, I designed a recycling bin shaped like a basketball hoop and measured how it changed the way students recycle.

THEY'LL PROBABLY ASK

“Tell me more about the recycling bin.”

B FROM YOUR DREAM

I'm a student who is deeply interested in how countries can work together to address climate change. This interest led me to lead a recycling project at my school and to represent India in a Model UN.

THEY'LL PROBABLY ASK

“Why climate diplomacy?” or “What did you do as India?”

C FROM HOW YOU LEARN

I'm a student who learns best by asking my own questions and finding the answers through action. When I wondered why students don't recycle even though they know they should, I ran a survey and built a new kind of recycling bin to find out.

THEY'LL PROBABLY ASK

“How do you usually study?” or “Why the IB program?”

OLIVIA'S VERSION

YOUR PROJECT · 25 MIN 1 / 2

The recycling bin.

Tell it in your own words — Brian writes down what you say.

1 Why did you start this project?

2 What did your survey show?

3 Why a basketball hoop?

4 How did you check if it worked?

YOUR PROJECT · 25 MIN 2 / 2

The recycling bin.

Tell it in your own words — Brian writes down what you say.

5 What were the numbers — before and after?

6 What did students tell you in the interviews?

7 What did you learn from it?

8 How is this connected to your dream?
