The Place and the Bottles

11 월 10 일 · 셀러도어 투어와 디너 · 11 일 빈야드 방문

What kind of soil is Gimblett Gravels, and why does it matter?

- A defined vineyard district in Hawke's Bay — about 800 hectares
- Exposed by a flood in 1876, when the Ngaruroro River changed course
- Too poor to farm — nearly sold as a quarry (hence “The Quarry”)
- Gravel holds the day's heat and releases it at night
- That's why Bordeaux varieties and Syrah ripen there

They have three sites. What's grown where?

- Gimblett Gravels, Hawke's Bay — Syrah, Bordeaux varieties
- Te Muna Road, Martinborough — Pinot Noir, Sauvignon Blanc
- Giants Estate, below Te Mata Peak — cellar door, restaurant, home base

Le Sol, Sophia, The Quarry — what's in each bottle?

- Le Sol — Syrah
- Sophia — Merlot-led Bordeaux blend
- The Quarry — Cabernet Sauvignon
- Aroha — Martinborough Pinot Noir
- Les Beaux Cailloux — Chardonnay

A new chief winemaker took over. What would you want to hear from him?

The Water and the Tiers

11 월 12 일 · 라파우라 방문 , 테이스팅 및 디너

Where does the water come from, and why does that make a difference?

- Snowmelt from the Southern Alps — the mountain range down the South Island
- Runs down the Wairau, sinks into a deep aquifer
- Surfaces as springs beside the vineyards about six months later
- No irrigation needed — mineral-rich water arrives on its own

What makes Rapaura different from the rest of Marlborough?

- Northwest of Blenheim, on deep gravel and sand
- Warm, with low frost risk
- Gives the benchmark Marlborough Sauvignon — citrus, tropical fruit
- Renwick, just west, is cooler — better for Pinot and Chardonnay

What's ROHE?

- A Māori word meaning region or boundary — not an abbreviation
- Their sub-regional range: each wine from one part of Marlborough
- Dillons Point, for example
- You taste the sub-region, not a blend of the whole valley

Their premium range grew much faster. What would you ask about that?

- Classic tier — up about 16% last year
- Ask: can they supply that growth, and would they hold volume for Korea
- The Maylons farmed green-lipped mussels before buying vines in 1985

He Says It. You Explain It.

Brian 이 와인메이커 . 한 문장씩 던지면 Lisa 가 풀어서 전달 .

“We hand-pick everything here — machines would break the bunches.”

- Bunches cut by hand, not machine
- Slower and more expensive
- You sort the fruit as you pick
- Bunches arrive whole, not broken

“It's all wild ferment — we don't inoculate.”

- The yeast already on the grapes starts the fermentation
- No cultured yeast added
- Less predictable, slower
- Can add complexity

“This one went through malo; the Sauvignon didn't.”

- Malolactic fermentation converts sharp malic acid into softer lactic acid
- Makes Chardonnay feel creamy instead of crisp
- Usually blocked for Sauvignon Blanc, to keep the acidity

“Twenty percent new French oak, the rest is third and fourth fill.”

- New oak — vanilla, spice, tannin
- Old oak (third, fourth fill) — lets the wine breathe, adds little flavour
- Only a fifth of this wine saw new barrels
